Section 2. The current scheme

Supporting text:

Camden Council has operated borough wide additional licensing schemes for Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMOs) since 2015 to tackle poor management and improve housing conditions across the borough.

An HMO is defined in law as a house or flat shared by three or more persons who are not part of the same family. The Council also licenses some buildings converted into flats (where the conversion does not meet recent building standards) and where less than half of the flats are owner occupied.

Landlords are responsible for applying for a licence for each HMO they own. A property inspection is carried out for every new HMO, to check it meets the required standards, and any necessary works are listed on the licence for the landlord to complete within a specified time period. The maximum number of permitted occupants (based on the size of the rooms and facilities available) is also listed on the licence to prevent overcrowding. Licences are typically given for a 5 year period.

A review of the current scheme has shown that 94% of licences have resulted in works being needed to meet the HMO standards. These mostly relate to improving fire safety within the property, but also improve electrical safety, the standard of bathroom and kitchen facilities and other measures such as requiring carbon monoxide detectors or improving the type of heating within the property. The review has also shown that where compliance inspections have been carried out, 80% of the licences have either been mostly or fully complied with.

At the same time, the Council is targeting letting agents and landlords who are operating unlicensed or ineffectively managed HMOs. During the current scheme, over 100 civil penalty notices have been issued to landlords and managing agents, which is the second highest of any London borough according to the GLA rogue landlord database. Camden has also taken a number of prosecutions against the very worst offenders, with the Courts finding a number of landlords and managing agents guilty of licensing offences, and handing down over £300,000 in fines. We have also obtained eight Banning Orders, preventing some of the worst landlords from operating for a period of five years.

Q. Before taking part in this consultation, were you aware that Camden Council has been operating an additional HMO licensing scheme since 2015?

- Yes
- No

Section 3. Renewing the scheme

Supporting text:

The recent review of the current additional HMO licensing scheme provided clear evidence that it is having a positive impact on improving property and management standards within Camden.

However, it also showed there are still a significant number of HMOs that are being managed ineffectively, and/or have not yet been licensed. Despite the scheme having been run and publicised for a number of years, and it being a legal requirement, we appreciate some individual landlords may still not be aware they need a licence. There also remains a core group of rogue landlords and agents that seek to exploit vulnerable tenants for financial gain. Whilst the HMO enforcement team are actively pursuing these landlords, and have achieved many successes, there is still more to be done. For these reasons, the Council is proposing to renew the current scheme

Q. An HMO licence requires the licence holder to have adequate management arrangements in place. To what extent do you agree that landlords have a responsibility to manage issues such as antisocial behaviour, refuse and overcrowding associated with their properties.

- Strongly agree
- Agree
- Neither agree nor disagree
- Disagree
- Strongly disagree
- Don't know

Q. If the licensing scheme was stopped and NOT renewed what impact do you think it would have on HMOs in the borough:

	With no scheme, there would be a positive impact	With no scheme, there would be a negative impact	There would be no change	Don't know
Safety standards and property conditions	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

Q. To what extent do you agree or disagree with Camden Council renewing the current borough wide HMO licensing scheme for a further five years when the current scheme ends?

- Strongly agree
- Agree
- Neither agree nor disagree
- Disagree
- Strongly disagree
- Don't know

Q. A licence is typically issued for 5 years, but where there is a cause for concern regarding the condition or management arrangements of a property, the Council can issue a 1-year licence, as a way of trying to resolve the issues more quickly. This also reinforces a level playing field for those landlords who are actively looking to improve standards, against those who simply submit a licence application to avoid being fined. To what extent to you agree or disagree with this approach.

- Strongly agree
- Agree
- Neither agree nor disagree
- Disagree
- Strongly disagree
- Don't know

Q. The Council charges a fee to cover the administration of the licensing scheme over five years. The law states the fee can only be used for this purpose and no other Council function. The Council does not (and cannot) make a profit from running the scheme.

A recent review of HMO licensing fees charged by London boroughs showed on average, HMO licensing fees ranged between £1,480 and £2,130. The proposed licence fee in Camden is £1,570. To what extent do you agree or disagree that the proposed HMO licence fee is reasonable?

- Strongly agree
- Agree
- Neither agree nor disagree
- Disagree
- Strongly disagree
- Don't know
