Hi Mel, hope that all is good your side.

Russell asked me to have a look at the Hackney Fare Chart review, with our Trading Standards eye on pricing regulations.

Apparently, a lot of drivers were rounding up lower fees (e.g. a £5.80 fare being rounded up to £6.00).

Obviously, this is incompatible with Trading Standards requirements; as customers should be able to make an informed choice and have an idea of their fare, before getting into the vehicle.

As a solution, we have gone with one of the suggestions from the trade, and proposed a £6.00 minimum charge.

Also, we have cut the different charging periods from three (i.e. 5:00-21:00/ 21:00-23:00/ 23:00-5:00) down to just two (i.e. 5:00-21:00 / 21:00-5:00). Hopefully, this makes things a bit simpler.

All the fare changes have been run by Colin at CJ&JT Fennessy; he advises that these changes will be compatible with the meters.

Please see attached our counter proposal.

Any questions, please don't hesitate to drop me a line.

All the best and have a great weekend.

Dean
